EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT / COMMENT

An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Applicant's representative, Mark Fitzgerald, on 24 February 2006.

The claims of record in the application have been amended as follows:

In line 2 of claim 1 following the term "a crystal structure" the phrase --of a macromolecule-- has been inserted.

In line 18 of claim 1 following the term "motifs," the phrase "probability distributions for electron density in regions containing" has been deleted.

In line 19 of claim 1 the phrase "macromolecule," has been deleted.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The instant claims are drawn to a method of using density modification to remove atomic model bias of an electron density map that relies upon selecting specific features of the electron density map not used in the first set of structure factors. Murshudov et al. sets forth the use of maximum likelihood function in the refinement of macromolecular structures relying on the Maximum likelihood method that involves the use of phase information and the conditional probability distribution of each reflection used to generate an electron density map. The methods disclosed by Murshudov et al. involve the selection of features in an electron density map that only relies on regions containing electron density of the macromolecule. Murshudov et al. does not fairly teach or suggest a method wherein selected features of an electron density map may include flatness of a solvent region, non-crystallographic symmetry, structural motifs, or probability distributions for electron density in solvent regions. In view of the above examiner's amendment, the instant claims do not read on a method wherein a selected feature of the electron density map may only contain probability distributions for electron density in regions containing macromolecule.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
